

IOWA

College of Law
The University of Iowa
290 Boyd Law Building
Iowa City, IA 52242-1113

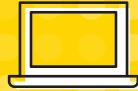

CONNECT WITH US

on Facebook and Twitter @uiowalawschool, or on Instagram @uiowalawschool.

ATTEND A VIRTUAL EVENT

at law.uiowa.edu/admissions/admissions-events.

SCHEDULE A VISIT

at law.uiowa.edu/schedule-tour or call 319-335-9034.

APPLY NOW

at law.uiowa.edu/admissions/apply.

The University of Iowa prohibits discrimination in employment, educational programs, and activities on the basis of race, creed, color, religion, national origin, age, sex, pregnancy, disability, genetic information, status as a U.S. veteran, service in the U.S. military, sexual orientation, gender identity, associational preferences, or any other classification that deprives the person of consideration as an individual. The university also affirms its commitment to providing equal opportunities and equal access to university facilities. For additional information on nondiscrimination policies, contact the Director, Office of Equal Opportunity and Diversity, the University of Iowa, 202 Jessup Hall, Iowa City, IA, 52242-1316, 319-335-0705 (voice), 319-335-0697 (TDD), diversity@uiowa.edu. WXXXXX-07/21

IOWA LAW

THIS IS IOWA LAW

#29

BEST LAW SCHOOL BY U.S. NEWS & WORLD REPORT

7:1

STUDENT-TO-FACULTY RATIO

100%

JOB PLACEMENT RATE WITHIN 10 MONTHS OF GRADUATION

9TH

HIGHEST EMPLOYMENT RATE FOR FULL-TIME JOBS, LAW.COM

94%

BAR PASSAGE RATE AMONG FIRST-TIME TEST TAKERS

BEST VALUE

LAW SCHOOL BY THE NATIONAL JURIST FOR 7 CONSECUTIVE YEARS

EXPERIENCE THE DIFFERENCE.

Iowa Law will prepare you to excel in an increasingly complex and competitive legal landscape. We treat service, writing, and on-the-job experience as integral components of a legal education—giving you the flexibility to explore the breadth of the profession and contribute to real change in society. Our graduates are grounded, practice-ready leaders who exercise their knowledge both across the country and around the world. With a degree from Iowa Law, you can succeed anywhere.

HAYLEIGH HANSEN JURIS DOCTOR, '21

Third-year College of Law student Hayleigh Hansen spent her winter break alongside patients and medical providers at the University of Iowa Hospitals & Clinics (UIHC). Not because she was sick or visiting a loved one, but to get a firsthand look at how legal issues intersect with the delivery of health care. "I wanted to see health law from the client's perspective," Hansen says, referring to patients, providers, and health care institutions. The winter seminar at UIHC offers a valuable perspective that isn't accessible to just anyone. Iowa's smaller class sizes bring students into the medical circle—allowing them to engage in conversations that typically happen behind the curtain. Having a diverse perspective is imperative in the legal profession, so for someone intending to practice health law after she graduates, partnering with UIHC was "absolutely invaluable," Hansen says. "I would honestly say this experience was the single-most practical learning experience I've had throughout my legal education."

→ STORIES.UIOWA.EDU/HAYLEIGH

STAND OUT FROM THE CROWD

HAYLEIGH HANSEN JURIS DOCTOR, '21

Third-year College of Law student Hayleigh Hansen spent her winter break alongside patients and medical providers at the University of Iowa Hospitals & Clinics (UIHC). Not because she was sick or visiting a loved one, but to get a firsthand look at how legal issues intersect with the delivery of health care. "I wanted to see law from the client's perspective," Hansen says. "I wanted to learn what it's like to interact with patients, providers, and health care institutions." The winter seminar at UIHC offers a valuable perspective that isn't accessible to just anyone. Iowa's small class sizes bring students into the medical circle, allowing them to engage in conversations that typically stay behind the curtain. Having a diverse perspective is imperative in the legal profession, so for someone intending to practice health law after she graduates, partnering with UIHC was "absolutely invaluable," Hansen says. "I would honestly say this experience was the single-most practical learning experience I had throughout my legal education."

→ STORIES.UIOWA.EDU/HAYLEIGH

Small by design, Iowa Law offers a unique opportunity to learn and interact in an intimate collegial setting.

Collaboration at Iowa Law is an everyday practice. Our smaller class sizes allow students to work together and engage in deep, constructive discussions—skills that are crucial in the legal profession. This personal approach to legal education also encourages students to partner with experts across campus in fields such as engineering and health care to gain a competitive edge on interdisciplinary issues. More than that, our faculty's "open-door" environment helps to ensure that every student has access to the comprehensive support they deserve. So when you ask for a letter of recommendation, you can be sure it will stand out—not only for its authenticity, but because it will come from someone who truly knows you.

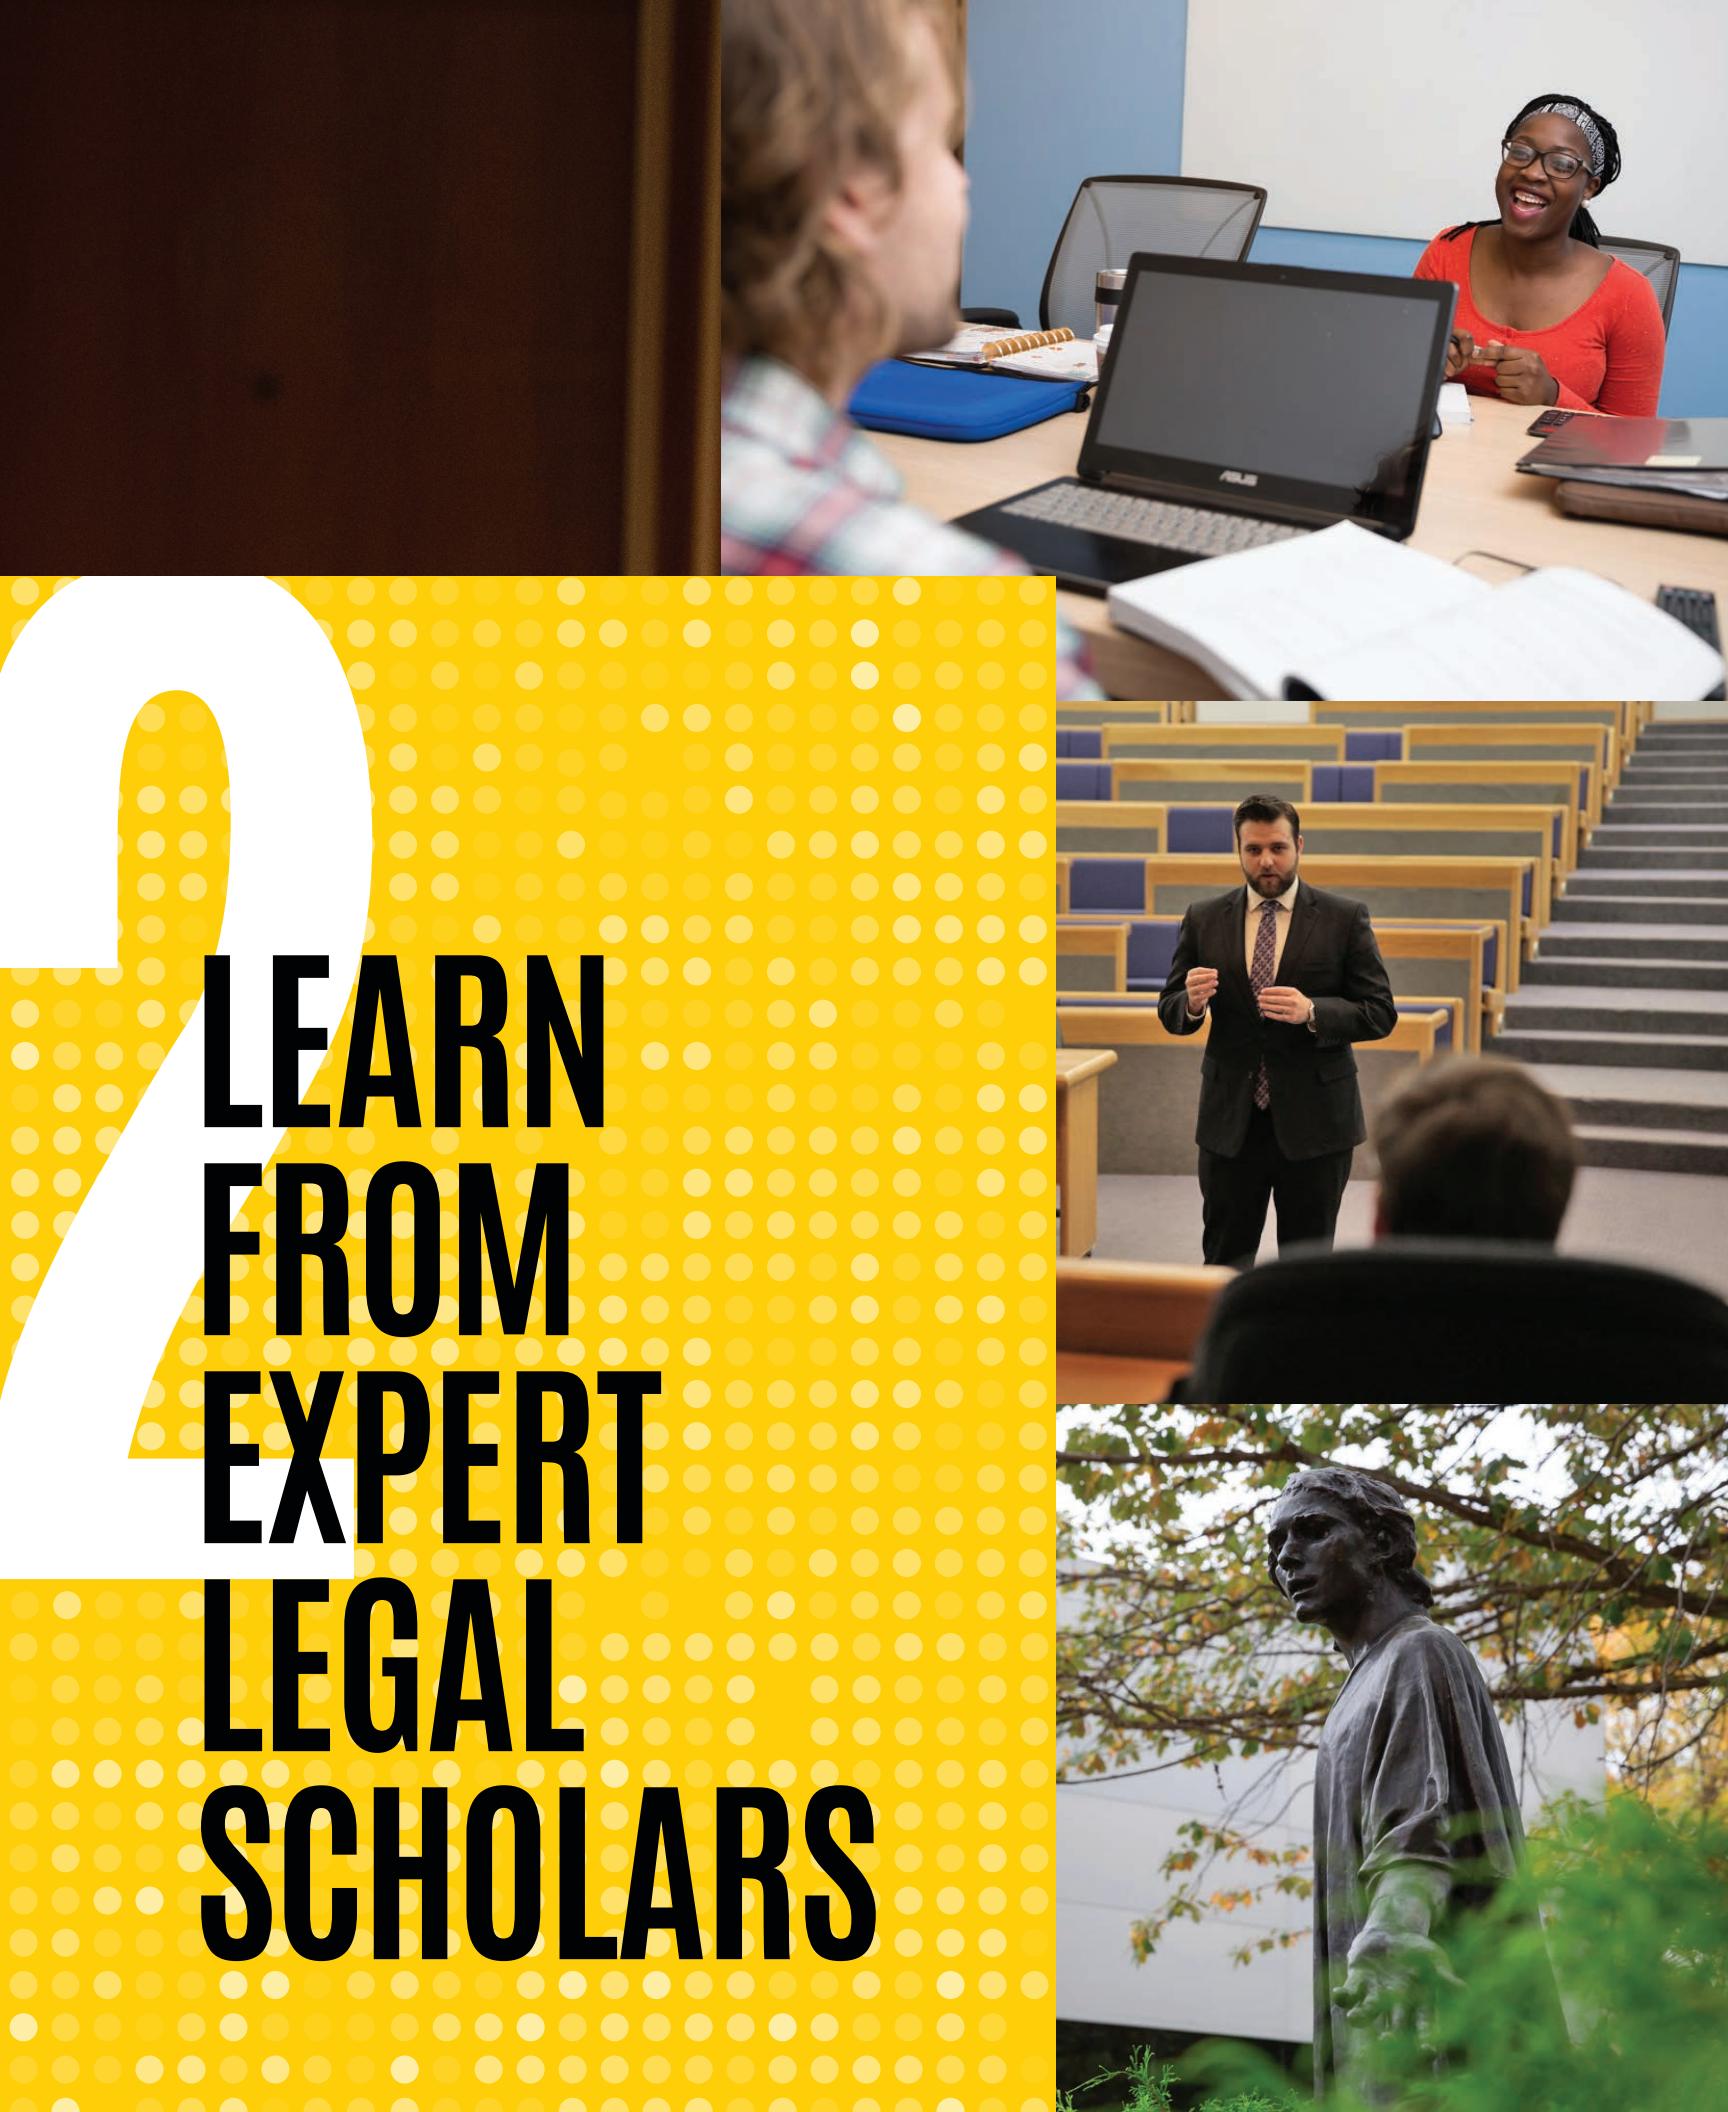

"Legal writing requires a completely different way of thinking and expressing yourself. And it's the defining skill when the time comes to get that first job. We will prepare you."

DAWN BARKER ANDERSON
Professor of Legal Analysis, Writing & Research

LEARN FROM EXPERT LEGAL SCHOLARS

"Legal writing requires a completely different way of thinking and expressing yourself. And it's the defining skill when the time comes to get that first job. We will prepare you."

DAWN BARKER ANDERSON

Professor of Legal Analysis, Writing & Research

But see, e.g.,

But c.f.

Iowa boasts an experienced, student-centered faculty dedicated to the development of practice-ready lawyers.

Our professors bring a broad range of professional experience to the classroom—from small and large firms to public defenders and government officials. You'll learn from experts who are not only leaders in their respective fields, but who are truly committed to teaching and student success. As the best public university for writing in the U.S., we invest in full-time faculty focused solely on your growth in research, analytical thinking, and persuasive communication—skills you can bring with you not only to the practice of law, but to a wide range of careers in government, business, and the nonprofit sector.

KAYLA BOYD JURIS DOCTOR, '21

Kayla Boyd always knew she wanted to help the disadvantaged get a fair shake in life. As a member of the Equal Justice Foundation and moot court program, she credits Iowa Law for giving her the opportunity to become a powerful advocate in her community. "My goal is to help the most vulnerable people in our criminal justice system," she says. "I believe that justice is the best way to do that is to provide strong legal defense for those who have been wronged," she says. Throughout her three years at Iowa Law, Boyd has had the opportunity to represent clients before the U.S. federal courts, which she considers one of the most rewarding experiences of her legal career. "It was a real person who I got to meet and work with, and to represent him and tell his story was an honor," she says, in reference to a particular case. Now a recent graduate, Boyd is prepared to use her skills and passion to take on her dream job with the state's attorney's office in her native Colorado.

IOWA.EDU/KAYLA

A large graphic element on the right side of the page. It features a white stylized figure of a person walking towards the left, composed of yellow geometric shapes. To the right of the figure, the text "TAKE REAL ACTION, MAKE REAL CHANGE" is written in large, bold, black capital letters.

TAKE REAL ACTION, MAKE REAL CHANGE

KAYLA BOYD JURIS DOCTOR, '21

Kayla Boyd always knew she wanted to help the disadvantaged get a fair shake in life. As a member of the Equal Justice Foundation and moot court program, she credits Iowa Law for giving her the opportunity to become a powerful advocate in her community. "My goal is to help the most vulnerable people in our criminal justice system," she says. "I believe the best way to do that is to provide strong legal defense for those who have been wrongfully accused." She adds, "It's important to remember that every case is about a real person, not just a set of facts or a series of legal documents. It was a real person who I got to meet and work with, and the opportunity to represent him and tell his story was an honor." Throughout her three years at Iowa Law, Boyd has had the opportunity to represent individuals in criminal cases before the U.S. federal courts, which she considers one of the most rewarding experiences of her law school career.

UIOWA.EDU/KAYLA

It takes practical experience to become a successful lawyer. At Iowa Law, your legal education is more than just studying cases and statutes in the classroom. It's about mastering professional skills and gaining the confidence you'll need to begin your career.

Starting from day 1, you'll learn how to model your legal skills to meaningfully assist members of the community—from volunteering for nonprofits and legal agencies to advocating and building arguments for real clients. By your second or third year, you'll have the opportunity to represent individuals and organizations in litigation, transactional work, and policy advocacy. Whether you want to embark on a semester-long placement program in Washington, D.C., or participate in moot court competitions across the country, you'll learn first-hand how to be an effective problem solver in a diverse and ever-changing society.

DISCOVER HOW YOU CAN CONNECT THEORY TO PRACTICE →

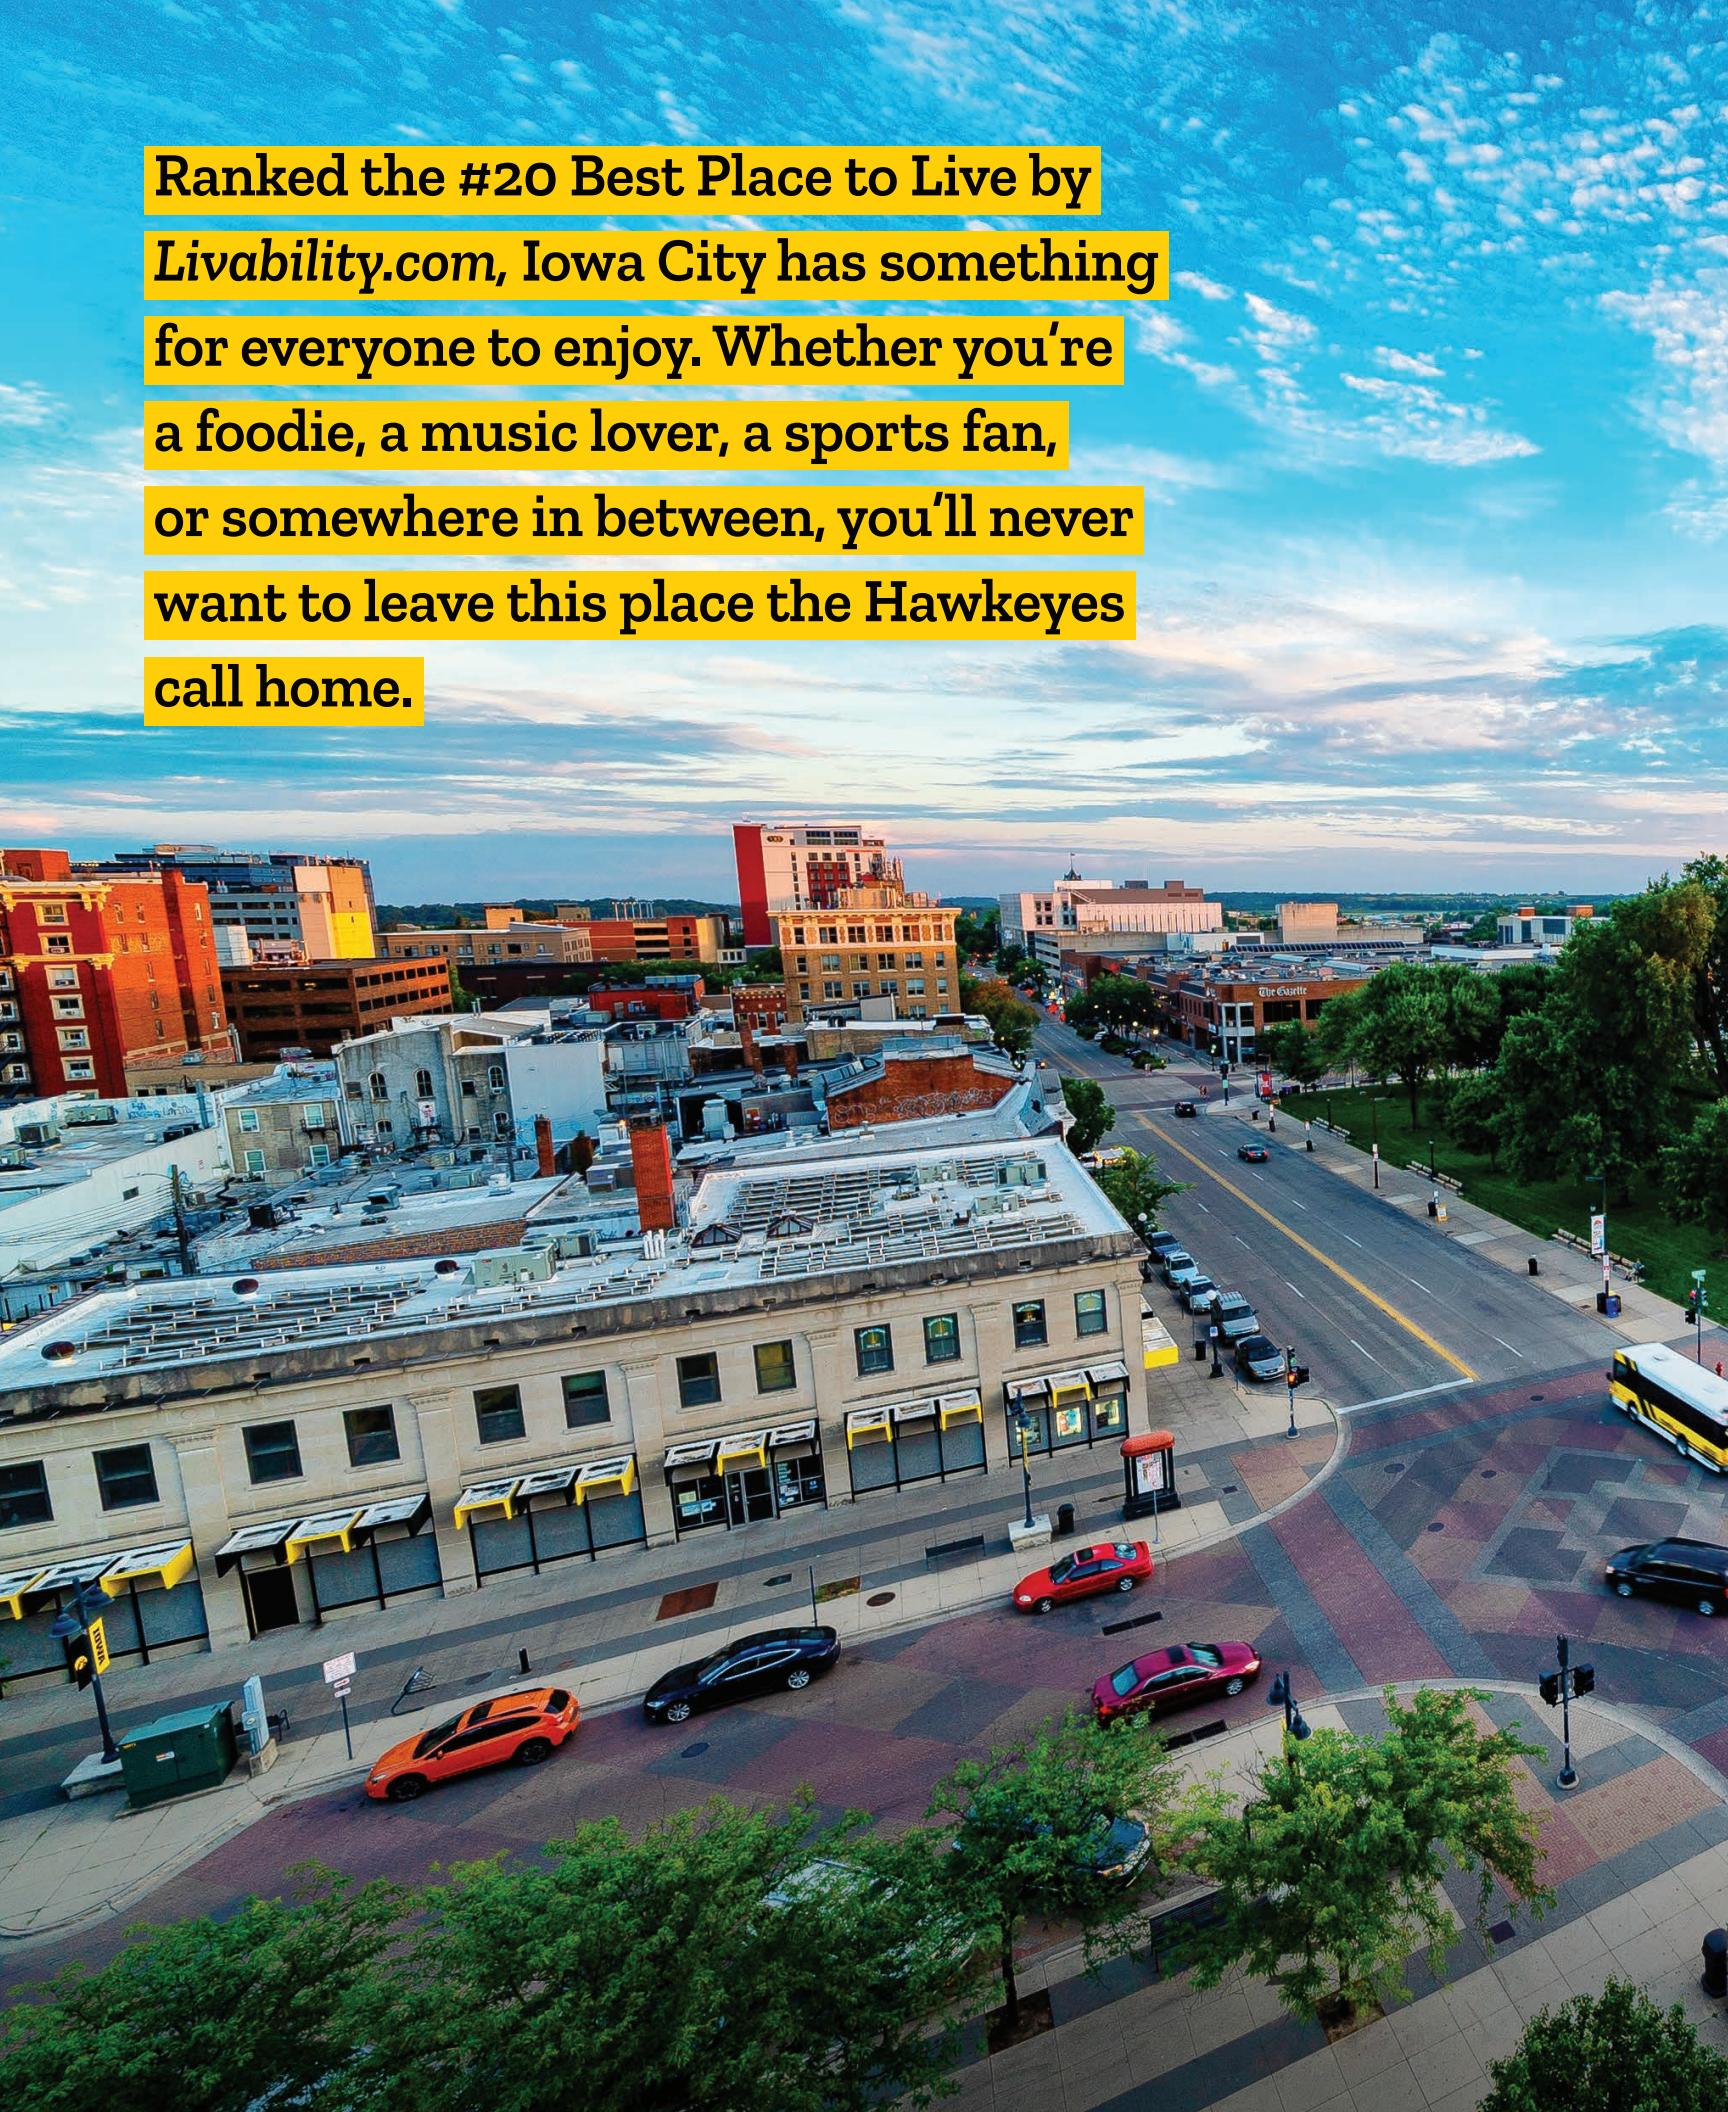

KAYLA BOYD JURIS DOCTOR, '21

Kayla Boyd always knew she wanted to help the disadvantaged get a fair shake in life. As a member of the Equal Justice Foundation and moot court program, she credits Iowa Law for giving her the opportunity to become a powerful advocate in her community. "My goal is to help the most vulnerable people in our criminal legal system, and the best way to do that is to provide an outstanding legal defense for those who have been treated unfairly," she says. Throughout her three years at Iowa Law, Boyd has had the opportunity to represent several clients before the U.S. federal courts, which she says have been the most rewarding experiences of her life. "The client was a real person who I got to meet and get to know. To represent him and tell his story was an honor," she says, in reference to a particular case. Now in her third year, Boyd is prepared to use her skills and experiences to take on her dream job with the state's public defender's office in her native Colorado.

→ STORIES.UIOWA.EDU/KAYLA

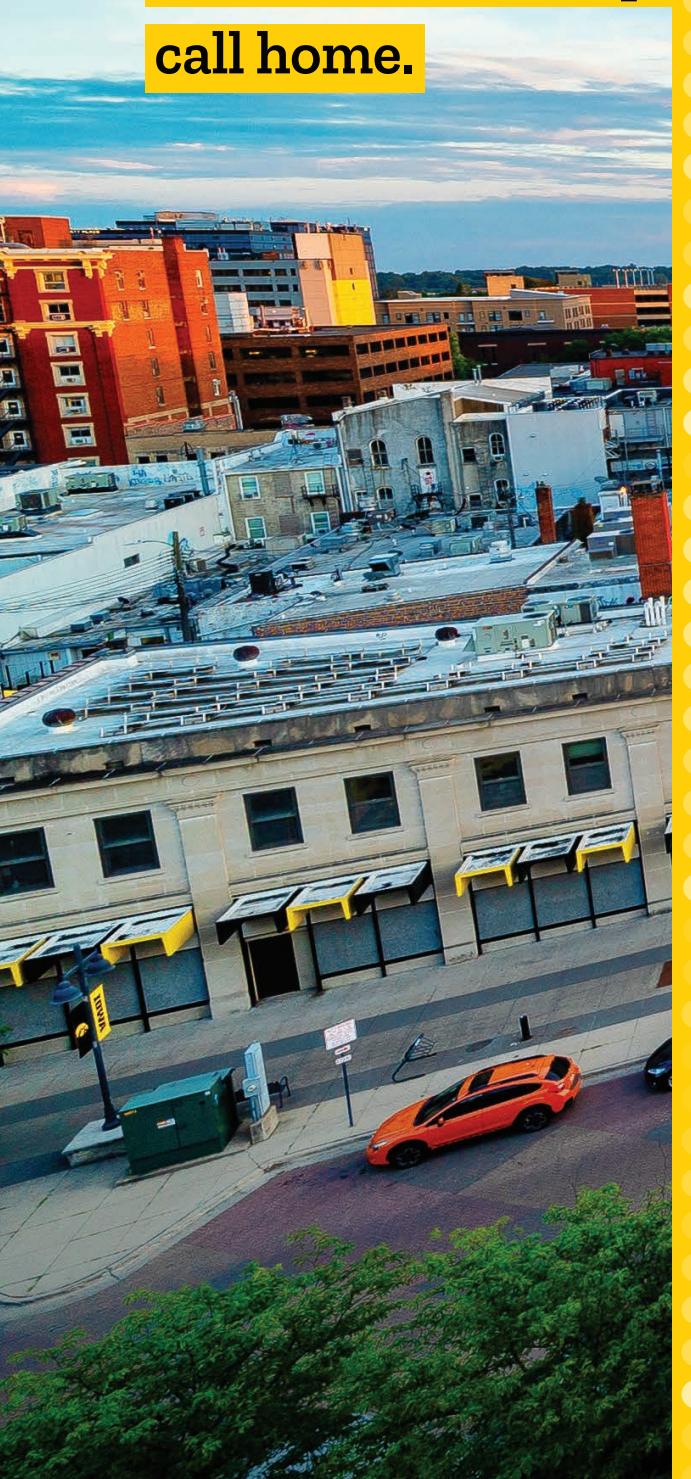

Ranked the #20 Best Place to Live by Livability.com, Iowa City has something for everyone to enjoy. Whether you're a foodie, a music lover, a sports fan, or somewhere in between, you'll never want to leave this place the Hawkeyes call home.

THE BEST COLLEGE TOWN

Ranked the #20 Best Place to Live by Livability.com, Iowa City has something for everyone to enjoy. Whether you're a foodie, a music lover, a sports fan, or somewhere in between, you'll never want to leave this place call home.

Iowa City is considered one of the best places to live in the country. With big city amenities alongside the comfort and affordability of a small town, members of our community reap the best of both worlds.

Our vibrant downtown seamlessly blends with the heart of campus, where you'll find hundreds of restaurants, BIG Ten athletics, and a dynamic art scene all within walking distance from the Law Building. More than that, the Iowa City community hosts a number of new and exciting events throughout the year—from annual festivals and block parties to author readings and workshops. Whether your commute to class is by bike, bus, car, or foot, you'll find it easy to balance the rigors of law school with fun and new experiences in America's #1 college town.

CAREER ADVICE THAT GETS YOU HIRED

EMANI MARSHALL JURIS DOCTOR, '21

Midwest native and third-year law student Emani Marshall took her knowledge all the way to the Iowa Supreme Court. Growing up in Nebraska, Emani knew she wanted to stay close to home for law school, but she wasn't exactly sure where she wanted to work after with a bit of support and encouragement from faculty, this uncertainty didn't last long.

After her first year on campus, Emani decided to meet with the Career Services Office for résumé help, and her advisor quickly turned to locations where she could find jobs. "I received excellent advice that led me to places where I have some connection to myself living," says Emani. "After that I drafted my cover letters, had them reviewed by the Career Services Office, and the rest is history." In a difficult interview process, Emani was ultimately selected for a clerkship with the Iowa Supreme Court which began after graduation.

IOWA.EDU/EMANI

From your first semester of law school to graduation and beyond, Iowa Law will provide you with the resources and support you'll need to succeed in the professional world.

Beginning your first year, you'll learn how to develop a résumé, emphasize your strengths, and identify opportunities well suited to your personal career goals. Our dedicated career counselors will help you navigate your job search and explore a variety of options that align with your individual interests. Along with the support you'll receive on campus, you'll also be welcomed into a network of 10,500+ Iowa Law alumni—many of whom recruit current Iowa Law students or will help you connect with prospective employers around the world.

EMANI MARSHALL JURIS DOCTOR, '21

Midwest native and third-year law student Emani Marshall took her knowledge all the way to the Iowa Supreme Court. Growing up in Nebraska, Emani knew she wanted to stay close to home for law school, but she wasn't exactly sure where she wanted to work after graduation. With a bit of support and encouragement from Iowa's faculty, this uncertainty didn't last long. During her first year on campus, Emani decided to meet with the Career Services Office for résumé help, and the conversation quickly turned to locations where she should apply for jobs. "I received excellent advice that I should look at places where I have some connection and could see myself living," says Emani. "After that conversation, I drafted my cover letters, had them reviewed by the Career Services Office, and the rest is history." After a difficult interview process, Emani was offered a coveted Iowa Supreme Court clerkship which she is set to begin after graduation.

→ STORIES.UIOWA.EDU/EMANI

Aerial view of the University of Iowa campus, featuring the Law Building with its distinctive white dome and curved roofline. The campus is surrounded by green trees and buildings, with the Iowa River flowing through the background under a cloudy sky.

WHY WOULDN'T YOU CHOOSE IOWA LAW?

World-class academics, close connections with faculty, and endless opportunities to find a career you love—all in America's #1 college town. What are you waiting for? Come experience Iowa Law for yourself.

→ LAW.UIOWA.EDU